

Our Power, Our Planet

By Keyli Alfaro Valle

Every year on Earth Day, people around the world are reminded that the future of our planet depends on the choices we make today. The theme “Our Power , Our Planet” shows that each of us has the ability to make a difference. Even small actions, when done by many people, can have a big impact on protecting the Earth.

“Our Power” means the choices we make every day. We have the power to help the environment by recycling, saving water, turning off lights, and reducing waste. These simple actions can create a real change. The first Earth day was held in 1970, and more than 20 million Americans participated to raise awareness about pollution and environmental problems. This shows that people working together can make a difference. Everyone should care for the place they call home.

“Our Planet” reminds us that Earth is our shared home, and everyone has a responsibility to care for it. Today, the planet faces serious problems such as climate change, plastic pollution, and deforestation. Rising temperatures can cause stronger storms, droughts, and wildfires that affect people and animals around the world. Plastic waste also harms oceans and wildlife. Such problems like these can stop us people from getting resources such as food and more oxygen to breathe.

Earth day teaches us that protecting the environment starts with everyday choices. By using our power wisely and working together, we can keep our planet clean, healthy, and safe for future generations.
