

Mya Robinson
Ms. Freiman

4-8-2026
Ela - 8 Honors

Our Power, Our Planet

Our planet, Earth, the only planet we can survive on, is struggling to survive itself. What it once showed, life and beauty is now replaced with death and misery. Our planet is sacrificing itself for us, even though we, humans, are the reason for its downfall. We litter, pollute, endanger and waste. We think only of what benefits us, leaving our Earth to slowly disintegrate. We are aware of the future but refuse to look past the present. This may not affect us, but it will affect your children, grandchildren and many more. It's never too late to take action and reverse the planet's fate. Many save the earth organizations such as the World Wildlife Fund and Rainforest Trust are making a difference paving the way so we can too. Simply picking up garbage on the street, reducing AI use and recycling can make a change. Remember how much our planet has sacrificed. It's time we return the favor before it's too late.