

A Different Tomorrow

By: Rawan Abdelqader

In a world full of plastic oceans,
Where yesterday's trash becomes tomorrow's mountains.
In a world full of waste,
Trash piling up day by day.
In a world full of "throw it away",
We tend to forget who's hurting each and every day.

From plastic bottles and metal cans,
Starting in a factory and ending up in someone's hands.
Used unconsciously,
Then thrown away,
Ending up in a landfill,
To repeating that cycle over and over again.

And somewhere beneath the weight of it all,
The Earth whispers,
To the young and small.

"Its in your hands,
You must make change.
For it is in you,
And the path you pave."

This wasn't always the way it was meant to be.

So lets make change,
And choose the better.
Maybe it's not too late to begin again.
Because in a world of "throw it away",
We can still choose what remains.

So our story does not have to end this way.